RACE-GOERS CHALLENGED FOR EXEMPTION CARDS.

Some sensation was caused at Newmarket Races restorday by the military authorities, challenging all those visitors whom they deemed to be of military age. Immediately they passed the turnstiles these visitors were called upon to produce their registration cards, and other papers if there was no one who objected to the action of the suthorities, but some goodhumoured chaff was indulged in at times. It transpired that less than half-a-dozen had failed to bring the necessary documents.

The constituencies represented by service members are, to all intents and purposes, disfranchised at a time when they desire to be actively represented, especially in view of the many matters arising out of the war which affect them as individuals and as communities. THE FRENCH SUCCESS.

for the first time, says The Times, since trench warfare was fairly established in France the whole system of German defences has been pierced on a considerable front. The breach as it actually standa is not wide enough to yield far-reaching strategic results, but the capture of Bouchavesnes demonstrates that such breached can be made, for it cuts through the subporate defences against which the Allies have breached can be made, for it cuts through the elaborate defences against which the Allies have been doing battle for two months and a-half. Whatever defences the retreating Germans may have constructed in their rear, they cannot be so formidable as those defending the line which the French have now pierced. These were the result of the thought and labour of two years. It is unlikely that any suddenly thrown up can permanently stay the men who captured them. Last week France was keeping the second anniversary of her great deliverance on second anniversary of her great deliverance of the Marne. Her armed sons are now keeping it on the Somme, and teaching the insolent for that his fortunes, which have been waning sine his onrush was arrested almost before the walls of Paris, must soon sink lower. Yet the united rees of the Allies are just coming in

MR. GEORGE MOORE'S NEW BOOK.

The Times Literary Supplement reviews "The Brook Kerith," by Mr. George Moore, which it pronounces a "difficult success." No one, however orthodox, could honestly be shocked by the book. It is a beautiful story, and you can, if you like, give different names to all the characters in it. Then it must be, even for the most orthodox, a true story, with all the truth of art. This book is a tribute there never was a stranger one—to the charm of Jesus. In it Mr. Moore expresses both his disbelief and his belief, but he is under the spell all the time, as if he were writing a story about some great artist whose works he loved. After all that has been written about Him—orthodox, commonplace, sceptical, controversial—He is once again a real, living person to Mr. Moore, and, in this reigious mood of his, the most interesting person in mood of his, the most interesting person in the world. That, no doubt, is why he has written this book about Him, and not because he wishes to express his disbelief in orthodox Anycoe, says the article (after enumerating the pieces chosen), who has hall experience of the difficulties that lie in wait for the maker of an anthology suitable for pupils of 14 or 15 years of age will be charitable in judging another anthologist's work. But the Intermediate selec-self. tion puts a strain on one's tolerance. When of English poetry one naturally expects these poems to be either of more than ordinary merit action. or, at any rate, to be worthy of serving as examples of their authors' ideals or ideas. They might even indicate a great sequence in literary ass history. But what do these eight poems stand 600 me for? There is not one of them that could rightly be called great, though any one of them would be good enough for a place in a larger

Mr. Campbell—The fellow who sent that letter on to us must be locking out for a job, or else has got the promise of one, but the devil a job he will ever get. (A laugh.)

Mr. Mellitt explained that all this arose out of the Board having marked "read" the asgacity resolution, and the action of the Guardians gave a great opportunity to the Irish Times to have a fling at Mr. Dillon; but if he (Mr. Mellitt) were present at the time he would not agree to that course. The Irish Times was a bad headine for them to copy. John Dillon always stood in the gap when he was wanted, and it was monstrous to mark that resolution read.

AN "IRISH TIMES" ARTICLE.

At the last meeting of the Swinford Board of Guardians—Mr. O'Hars, V.C., in the chair—a discussion took place on a letter signed "A Dubliner," addressed to the Chairman, enclosing an article from the Irish Times in reference to Mr. Dillon, M.P., and the Swinford Board of Guardians. "A Dubliner" wrote—"Perhaps you have not seen the enclosed attack on your worthy representative. Certainly, it is a great shame to see this said of a gentleman who has done so much for Ireland and saved the country from being coerced into conscription."

for the first time, says The Times, since trench warfare was fairly established in France the whole system of German defences has been pierced on a considerable front. The breach as it actually stands is not wide enough to yield far-reaching strategic results, but the capture of Bouchavesnes' demonstrates that such belaborate defences against which the Allies have been doing battle for two months and a-half. Whatever defences the retreating Germans may have constructed in their rear, they cannot be so formidable as those defending the line which the French have now pierced. These were the result of the thought and labour of two years. It is unlikely that any suddenly thrown up can permanently stay the men who captured them. Last week France was keeping the second anniversary of her great deliverance on the Marne. Her armed sons are now keeping it on the Somme, and teaching the insolent foo that his fortunes, which have been waning since the sources of the Allies are just coming into the Somme, and teaching the insolent foo that his fortunes, which have been waning since the sources of the Allies are just coming into the Somme, and teaching the insolent foo that his fortunes, which have been waning since the sources of the Allies are just coming into the source of the Allies are just coming into The French operations north of the Somme have been continued, as the Paris communique points out, "with distinct success to our arms." At 8 o'clock in the eyening the village of Bouchavaenes was attacked and carried in its entirety. The germans admit the loss of this village.

Yesterday morning French troops advancing towards the east took the farm of Bols on L'Abbé, which is south-east of Bouchavenes.

LAST NIGHT'S LISTS. Last night's casualty lists show the following losses: Officers—Dead, 11; wounded and missing, 68. Men—Dead, 991; wounded and missing, 4,095.

Mr. Leonard Spray, the Rotterdam correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, says—The German Imperial Chancellor, Herr Behmann-Hollweg, has returned to the Eastern front headquarters, where he remains in conference with the Kaiser. There need be no longer any doubt that discussions of the utmost importance are taking place between the leading representatives of the enemy Powers. According to some reports, the only subject is the immediate military southern the enemy subject is the immediate military position in the Eastern and Southeastern theatres of operations, but news from other well-informed sources suggests that most far-reaching questions as to the general military relations between Germany and the Bulgarian and Turkish Allies are being debated. Even the mere identities of the personages now in conference with the Kaiser at the Eastern Headquarters is proof thatwomething is going on which may lead to decisions affecting the whole future course of the way. One strange fact is that Austria-Hungary is not represented in the conference. The Committee of Foreign Affairs of the French Chamber of Deputies yesterday heard M. Leygues, Minister without Portfolio, who produced documents relating to the Balkan question and German action in Athens, which he had communicated to M. Briand, Premier. During the recess the Committee considered the position of Greece, Its unanimous opinion was that the Entente must hold itself aloof from the internal policy of Greece, but could not be indifferent to her foreign policy, or to the intrigues which were being carried on. The Committee felt that there was no longer room for diplomatic negotiations, which would have no other result than to permit the use of fresh dilatory methods by the enomies of the Allies.

POST FOR MR. NEIL PRIMROSE.

The Parliamentary correspondent of the Daily Tetegraph states that the Hon. Neil Primrose, younger son of the Earl of Rosebery, has been appointed second Parliamentary Secretary to the Ministry of Munitions. He is to take charge of a new department, the title and function of which are in course of settlement. Mr. Primrose, who has just returned from his military duties in Egypt, was twice mentioned in despatches, and was awarded the Military Gross.

The communiqué issued at Petrograd yesterday is as follows:

In the wooded Carpathians, in the region of the Upper Czarny Czeremosz River, the enemy and unsuccessfull valended some hostile trawlers were completed to run aground.

EXPECTED DEPARTURE FROM NEUTRALITY.

(REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.)

Dr. Streit, ex-Minister for Foreign Affairs, had a long conference on the situation to-day with M. Dimitrakopoulos, who is considered the probable candidate for the Fromiership.

The political crisis has, not yet been solved. The acceptance of the resignation of M. Zaimis is now official, but it is difficult to make a forecast as to what to-morrow has in store. There are serious indications that there will be an important change in the attitude hitherto followed by Greece, within, perhaps, 48 hours, and it is also stated in usually well informed quarters that the King has decided to emerge from neutrality without further delay. All this, however, must be taken with reserve, as the departure of Greece from neutrality depends mainly on the turn taken by events on the Rumanian front. Generally speaking, the situation is most obscure. (REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.) A semi-official report states—The Rumanians are in contact with the enemy all along the Danube. A detachment of the enemy advancing along the Danube was counter-attacked and repulsed, leaving in Rumanian hands eight German guns.

Princess Henry of Battenberg has returned IRISH SOLDIERS' PENSIONS.

Sur.—It is well known that the pensions granted to soldiers manned and permanently she highest granted by any of the contending mations, are still inadequate. Owing to the unfortunately vast humbers of those qualifying, deplorable, if unavoidable, delay occurs in the first payments, and hence much misery. The propie of North-East Ulster have raised a fund of over $40,000 to supplement pensions and assist to civil employment the wounded of the remainder of our firsh soldiers?

It is seeiningly your opinion that the men of Ireland have not done their duty in full. What is being done for those men who have done something for our boys, and when those boys come home at least to sympathy and love. The wounded firsh Celt comes home sometimes, as the other week in Cork, to be bester—at best to be insulted. Lip-sympathy or lip-loyalty is of no use in these cases. When are the Southern folk going to start their fund? I am an Utsterman, but I am an Trishman, foc; and I could find another mite for that fund as well. But I am not the man to inaugurate it.—Yours, etc., "Utzma."

ARMY CONTRACTS CASE.

CHARGE OF ACCEPTING BRIBES.

The trial was continued, before Mr. Justice Low, at the Old Bailey, London, resterday, of Lucien William Asseling and William Nash, formerly viewer and inspector, respectively, at the Royal Army Clething Department, Pimileo, who are charged with conspiring with others to scept bribes to show favour to contractors.

The prosecution allege that an agreement was made between Asseling and Messra. Hindes, Ltd., of London and Birmingham, whereby Asseling was to have 3 per cents of the payments received by the company, who were big contractors for Army brushes.

Mr. Muir, prosecuting, said that Asseling received $2,400 in six months, or at the rate of nearly £3,000 a year, from one contractor alone, to remove obstruction in the shape of rejection of goods, but handed back £170 to one Bromley, in Hindee's service.
